Heather,

Our quiet, procrastinating, perfectionist - all your hard work has paid off. Congratulations!!! You are no longer ours to watch over, nurture, and protect, but we can still give you advice. Continue on the path you've started and never slow down. Perfection is a heavy cross to bear, lighten up a little. Success is no good unless you have a little fun along the way. Persistence is easier than perfection. Happiness is a long goal. Try real hard to be happy. You have always been able to make the right decision, even when it wasn't the popular one, and we trust that will continue. Remember the true measure of wealth is one's happiness.

Love, Mom, Dad, Jason, Rudy, Tachi, & Simba

To our little "Hollyberry" Our lives you've made so merry How quickly time has past You've grown up way too fast Now 'tis time for us to say GOOD LUCK ON GRADUATION DAY! Love, Dad, Mom and Paul

To My Graduate (written by Mom)

Words cannot express what I feel being a part of your development. The first trimester from first birth to six years.

Budding into the you that you were becoming.

Within the womb of our love, our home, our community.

The second trimester from six years to your teens.

Feeling those stirring of movements to those kicks.

Your preparation for taking that leap.

To the third trimester - your teens to your graduation.

Feeling at times the struggle between us.

Wondering if you were going to be delivered too early or worse, a miscarriage.

To that warm joy of knowing you have arrived, emerged - graduated -

Metamorphosed into that young adult I had always wished for you.

With love,

Mom and Dad

Jennifer, You have been such a blessing in our life! We are so proud of all you have accomplished. "The secret of success is focus of purpose." Focus on what you want and it will be yours.
